

The Oldest Cold Case in Port Cabrillo : A Hunter Triplets Mystery

Beverly M Kelley

Nothing much ever happens in Port Cabrillo. That's what residents used to tell themselves before the Hunter triplets returned to the sleepy little beach community where they grew up. The two blonds, who are identical in appearance, went on to achieve staggering success in their respective fields. Charlotte was tapped as the chief administrator for the Los Angeles County District Attorney. Emily became the first female police chief in San Perdido County. The dark-haired Anne, who also has to cope with Aspergers syndrome, found considerable satisfaction as a manuscript reader for a New York-based mystery house. Life, however, radically changed for the Hunters once their mother Carina, the best-selling author of the Inspector Meadow series, succumbed to cancer before seeing her three little women return to Thomas House to investigate a forty-year old disappearance/murder. Inspired by a real cold case, this thought-provoking and richly detailed cozy introduces the trio of fifty-year-old sister sleuths. If you are drawn to plots that pivot on details about dogs, literature, birding, history, fortunetelling, or food, this smartly written page-turner is just your dish.
